Notifiable data breach

A reportable major or serious data breach is one that is likely to result in serious harm to any of the affected individuals. Serious harm can include physical, psychological, emotional, financial, or reputational harm. Under the Notifiable Data Breach Scheme, such breaches must be reported to the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner (OAIC).

The OAIC does not need to be notified about data breach that does not have the potential to cause serious harm.

If the School suspects or believes that an eligible data breach has occurred, the School conduct a risk assessment of the relevant factors, as promptly as practicable, to determine if an eligible breach occurred, and take all reasonable steps to complete this assessment within 30 days of becoming aware of the breach. Examples of data breaches causing serious harm include:

- Loss or theft of School laptop or other electronic device containing the personal information of students or staff;
- Hacking of a database containing personal information;
- Loss of hard copy private confidential information;
- Mistaken provision of personal information to the wrong person.

When there is a suspected data breach reported, the School will enact the Data Breach Response Plan.

When a data breach has been identified as eligible, the School will

- Prepare and submit a statement to the OAIC in the format prescribed as soon as practicable after becoming aware of the eligible data breach;
- Take reasonable steps, in the circumstances, to contact all affected individuals directly, or
- If direct contact is not practicable, contact affected individuals indirectly by publishing information on the school's website or other publicly available forum;
- Review internal processes to identify any weaknesses to address to avoid the breach to happen again.
